Program
9 am - 10 am	Rosalie Shawcross (Principal Project Officer, Values Education Project, Education Queensland) Rosalie's emphasis will be on some empirical evidence that supports the anecdotal evidence about positive impacts on students and teachers when explicit values education is undertaken
10 am - 11 am	Liz Fynes-Clinton (Teacher) will talk about implementing the Philosophy in Schools program in Brisbane state primary schools and the uses of philosophical discussion to achieve educational objectives such as critical thinking and ethical judgment.
11 am - 11.30 am	Morning tea
11.30 am - 12.30 pm	A choice of two practical sessions on teaching strategies...
Caroline Brooks Mt Gravatt SHS	"Seeing and Being- Values in Practice". How can we tell that we have been successful in teaching about values? This session gives some practical suggestions on strategies to build on activities in both primary and secondary school settings to create a school environment where values are explicit, recognised and enacted.
Joy Schultz Educational Consultant	Participants will be part of a simulated "committee of inquiry" activity that can be conducted with students. It will be based on a topical issue where different value positions are researched and presented as a basis for decision making.
